700 Liledoun Road
Taylorsville, North Carolina 28681

The Alexander County Board of Education has established the "Award of Honor" in order to recognize those individuals who have made exceptional contributions to Alexander County Schools. This award represents the highest honor that the Board of Education can bestow.

Criteria for the selection of this award shall be based on exceptional contributions to the Alexander County School System or any of its individual schools in the areas of academics, athletics, administration, student achievement, or community service to the schools. The contributions may include recognition on a regional, statewide, or national level as well as local notoriety and shall have allowed our children the chance not only to grow and meet their full potential, but to excel as well.

The final yardstick by which all nominees shall be judged as to the merit of his/her application is the positive effect on the quality of education in Alexander County as recognized by fellow students, teachers, administrators, and the community in general.

Guidelines:

- 1) A committee shall be established to receive and screen recommendations for this award.
- 2) Neither current Board of Education members nor current school system employees are eligible for the award.
- 3) The final decision(s) shall be made by the Alexander County Board of Education.
- 4) Nominations may be made from the second week in February through the second week in March of each year. Nominations will be kept on file for up to three years.
- 5) Each individual nominated must have a minimum of three letters of recommendation by non-immediate family members.
- 6) The Award(s) shall be given annually at the time determined by the Board of Education.
- 7) Nomination forms are available at the Alexander County Board of Education office.
